

Signs of spring

KEVIN LEE/The Daily Herald

A couple enjoys the warm spring weather at Bridal Veil Falls in Provo Canyon on Sunday afternoon.

Mon 3-22-99

rule.

Better specifics and definitions of the regulations, especially regarding planned centers, may be added to the ordinance. Planned centers include strip malls, shopping centers, multiple businesses and office ordinance came about a few years ago when city officials outlined the master plan. In the process, they gathered an immense amount of public opinion on the needs and goals of the city.

Brad Kirk, owner of ment signs on their own, so he would lose business in Provo; the city makes up about 10 percent of his business.

Kirk said he expects business owners to be unhappy

See SIGN, A2

BRIAN WINTER/The Daily Herald
circle in Eagle Mountain recent-

e sprawl space, growth

enjoyed creating a town that doesn't use traffic lights but roundabouts and won't put up with neon signs.

"I think the fact that open space is being touted as the latest in developing land is interesting," said Jacob. "We had already planned for open space three years ago."

Not everything has been roses and honey. There have been problems with some of the plans and developers can't always be trusted, she said.

U.S. opts for one more try at peace deal

By WILLIAM C. MANN

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The Clinton administration opted for a final diplomatic effort at peace in Kosovo because "we owe it to the American people" and the NATO allies, National Security Adviser Sandy Berger said Sunday.

A special U.S. envoy, Richard Holbrooke, planned to meet tonight with Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic in a last-ditch mission to convince Milosevic that NATO is ready to bomb Yugoslavia unless he stops the bloodshed in Kosovo.

Milosevic "has a clear choice. He can move to the path of peace ... or he can face punishment from NATO," Berger said on CBS' "Face the Nation."

Berger added: "I think we owe it to the American people, we owe it to our military people, our allies, to make that final attempt."

A timetable for possible airstrikes remained in doubt, although Berger and Secretary of State Madeleine Albright hinted they would not come

See KOSOVO, A2

Reading class gives student boost in other subjects too

By MARTA MURVOSH

The Daily Herald

OREM — College freshman Matthew Hatfield said he is cracking textbooks open more than ever before.

Last semester, he was reluctant to open his anatomy and biology books because he hadn't been a strong reader. It was hard to decide which items in the book he needed to devote to memory, Hatfield said.

This semester, the 22-year-old Utah Valley State College student who lives in Springville said he doesn't hes-

